BEER'S DESCRIPTION.

Dr. W. F. Beer was the first witness alled this morning. He testified that he had known Roy Kaighn almost all of the boy's life. The boy's condition came to his notice during the National Guard encampment beginning Sept. 5, 1901, during which he was under the inwence of liquor or a drug most of the ime. He visited defendant about 4 e'clock the afternoon of the shooting, accompanied by Dr. Benedict. In describing defendant's appearance at that time he said: "His face was congested, eyes infamed and the pupils dilated. He was very nervous, couldn't maintain any very nervous, couldn't maintain any one position for any length of time: kept looking up and down and wouldn't look anyone in the face. I asked him why he did it and he said it was a case of getting the gun there first and he did it. From my judgment he was not of sound mind, he was laboring either under the influence of liquor or drug and his mind was so unbalanced that he could not, in my judgment, distinguish between right and wrong, and was irresponsible for his acts, and I would consider him insane."

THE DOCTOR CROSS-EXAMINED.

On cross-examination he stated that belladonna would dilate a person's eyes and it would take about 20 minutes for to take effect after which last for three or four days. Morphine, he said, would contract the pupils of the eyes and if defendant's eyes were not contracted he couldn't have had any morphine in his system. Cocaine dilates the pupils, but witness did not know the effects of absinthe upon the pupils of the eye. He said he could not tell whether defendant's pupils were di-lated from the effects of belladonna, cocaine or whisky. Witness said that be had never before examined a person within two and a half hours after he had committed a homicide, so could not tell what effect the crime would have

"Do you believe, doctor, that the best triterion for judging a person insane is his acts?" asked Mr. Elchnor.

"Yes sir."
The district attorney then related the shooting, his purchase of the revolver and everything connected with the crime, and then asked if he would consider such acts those of an insane per-

"Do you think that all persons who commit murder are insane?"

"I think there is a stage of insanity in the majority of murders." "When they commit murder do you think they are in such a frame of mind that they can not distinguish between

"I don't think they could." HYPOTHETICAL QUESTION.

Senator Brown also put a hypothetital question to witness in which he described the alleged assault upon Miss Coates, the fact of Roy Kaighn walking in during the struggle then returning whis room, sitting up all night broodby over the affair, drinking alcohol and shinthe and in that frame of mind shooting Haynes, and concluded by sking witness if he would consider Ech an act that of an insane person. I would consider him insane, laborby under great stress of mind," was

DR. BENEDICT TESTIFIES.

Dr. C. M. Benedict was the next wit-He testified that he had hown Roy Kaighn for three or four lears. He related the same experience at the National Guard encampment as visited defendant at the city fall with Dr. Beer on the afternoon of the shooting. He said the boy apheared dazed and seemed to be under the influence of what he had done or some drug. He considered the defendand of unsound mind at that time and totally irresponsible for his actions. described the prisoner's actions at practically the same manner as Dr. Beer.

On cross-examination he stated that he had never before examined a person within two and a half hours after he had not judge whether his condition was due to the crime.

Afrian Pembroke testified that he had seen Roy Kaighn under the influence of the control of the ence of liquor three or four times. He saw him between 12 and 1 o'clock the day of the shooting in front of McGurrin's bank. Roy was walking west and looked as if he were under the influence of liquor, his face was pale, his eyes blood-shot and he was mutestage. muttering to himself.

He told his father how the supposed crime was committed but upon investigation it was found that the boy had not been in any trouble at all. The next morning, the vitness said he had no recollection of what he had said the night before. G. A. White, a Tribune reporter, tes-tified that he interviewed defendant about an hour after the shooting and he thought he was out of his mind or under the influence of a drug. He had seen Kaighn twice before, when he was arrested, once for being drunk and another time for smoking opium.

Miss Anna Thomas, the nurse who attended Mr. Haynes during his last illness, testified as to the wounds on Haynes' person, one being the gunshot wourd and the other a contusion on the left arm which looked as if caused by a bite. She said that Col. Kaighn and Miss Jennie Coates called to see Mr. Haynes in the evening after the shooted man tell Col. Kaighn that Roy was crazy when he shot. She saw Haynes take Miss Coates' hand and hold it for two or three minutes, she leaning over him to hear what he was saying. Wit-ness saw his lips moving, but did not hear what he was saying to Miss

Mrs. Anna Wilson and Mrs. Dick Lambert, at whose house defendant had boarded on different occasions prior to the tragedy, testified as to his constant use of cigarettes and liquor. The latter stated that she had seen him bordering insanity a number of times.

After the examination of these two witnesses court adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

THIS AFTERNOON. The further examination of Mrs.

Kaighn at the opening of the session this afternoon was continued until after Dr. G. W. Shores was examined. Dr. Shores testified that he had known defendant for several years, his brother, Ned Kaighn, having worked in the doctor's office for several years and defendant would come up there to see him. He said the boy changed considerably in the last year, and he had seen him a number of times when he ap-peared to be dissipated. Several times witness said Roy came to his office and would sleep off his drunk. In the last year he said his manner changed from that of a kind and obliging disposition to bluntness and rudeness. There was no cross-examination of the witness. Mrs. Kaighn was then recalled to the stand and testified as to Mr. Haynes' visits to their home, where he was always treated in a pleasant manner by Roy. She said that her sister had been acquainted with Mr. Haynes about one and a hiaf years prior to his death, and that they had been keeping company together for a year. He would come to the house, witness said, nearly every evening while in the city. and either spend the evening or take Miss Coates to some place of amusement. He always brought her some little present when he called. corresponded with each other while he was out of the city. She said the rel-ations between Roy and Mr. Haynes were always friendly. Mrs. Kaighn told of another incident where Roy came home and acted in a very queer manner. One night about two months before the shooting occurred she said he came home and saw a bottle containing laudanum on the table. He picked it up and drank some, They watched him all night long to see that no ill effects resulted. The next said he didn't know unless he was "bug-house." Every few days witness said he would threaten to leave home, saying no one cared for him. The morning of the shooting Mrs. Kaighn said he appeared to be out of his mind, After the shooting she saw him at the police station but couldn't get anything out of him. He talked at random, His father took him to one side and tried to talk with him, but he, too, was unsuccessful. He was out of his mind. The witness said she visited Roy at the county fail every day and that it was a week or ten days before she saw any change in his condition.

There was no cross-examination on and the colonel heard him sobbing and the next witness called.

NO PLACE FOR THE POOR MAN.

Colorado Springs Attorney so Speaks of Thunder Mountain.

WALKED THE COUNTRY O'ER

Says There is Wealth There But it Will Require Capital to Develop It - Boise Booming.

I. T. Jones, an attorney and mining operator of Colorado Springs, arrived in Salt Lake this morning from Thunder Mountain. Incidentally Mr. Jones proudly boasts that this summer in Idaho he has walked more miles than there are miles of railroad track in that state. As there are 1106 miles of railroad in Idaho, it goes without saying that Mr. Jones has worn out several pairs of shoes this summer.

"I thought that the best way to see the country was to walk," he said this morning, "so four companions and myself got a pack train for our outfit and we walked into Thunder Mountain from Boise, a distance of 210 miles, and arrived there June 9. We made our headquarters at Roosevelt, from which center we thoroughly explored the country on foot. We started out of the district on the 15th of last month."

Mr. Jones in summing up the situation said that Thunder Mountain district was no place for the poor man. But for the capitalist with the money to put in for development, he was confident there was wealth practically in sight. He stated that the formation around Thunder Mountain proper consisted of a light tale with a porphyry blanket over it which eventually runs into a sugar quartz. The porphyry formation runs from $2 to $8 a ton, and can be treated for $1.60 a ton, all free milling. Most of the ore in and around Thunder Mountain proper is of a low grade order and can be treated by stamps or cyanides. Within a radius of 25 miles the porphyry disappears and immense quartz ledges crop to the surface. On Profile creek Mr. Jones said he followed one ledge for 15 miles which averaged 40 feet wide, and in some places was 400 feet wide on the surface. Various assays of this ledge had been made, one showing 300 ounces of silver and one of gold, while another showed one ounce of silver and six ounces of gold to the ton.

For 30 miles around Thunder Mountain the country is mineralized, but its inaccessibility makes development slow, although there are abundance of

In answer to a question as to how many people there were in the district Mr. Jones said that when he left the postmaster informed him at Deweyville that he had mail for about 3,000. Mr. Jones said that men were con-stantly coming into the district and leaving it, and many would spend the Considerable good properties had been taken up by syndicates and Mr. Jones expressed himself of the opinion that all the "knocking" done in the numerous papers throughout the country had been instituted at the instigaon of the syndicates which were interested and desired to keep prospec-tors out until they had got the pick of the district. In speaking regarding Boise Mr. id: "Boise is a good town and to settle up my affairs and eturn there in about two weeks. There not a cottage for rent in the whole town and although three business blocks are now in course of erection there every office has been spoken for. I regard Idaho as being the state in the Union which has more opportunities for the young man than any other, and I intend to make it my future

MURDERERS' LAST STRUGGLE. Made Desperate Fight Just Before His Execution.

New York, Sept. 19.-Peter Herlia was hanged in the county jail at Hackensack, N. J., today for the murder of Barley Kanter, a butcher. Before his execution was accomplished Herlia made a desperate fight.

When two deputy sheriffs approached him to strap his arms he suddenly off two brass brackets on the side of his cell and getting into the corridor leaped over a partition. He then tore off a piece of lead pipe and crouching in a corner shouted that he would brain any one that came near him. By this time the jail was in an uproar. The sheriff and his deputies were at first puzzled as to how to deal with the murderer and disarm him. It was finally was done and as Herlia put up his hands to ward off the water from striking him in the face a deputy sheriff leaped over and grabbed the hand of the murderer in which was the lead pipe. NEW MANAGER FOR "CORIANTON."

Well Known Theatrical Man Will Succeed Mr. Blair.

PLAY WILL JUMP TO BOSTON

From There It Will Go to the Motropolis-No Differences Now And Bright Outlook.

"Corianton" is to have a new manager; so the "News" was informed this afternoon by Mr. R. K. Thomas, one of the directors of the Deseret Dramatic syndicate that owns the play, Who the gentleman is to be he did not state, but he said he would be a New York theatrical manager of ability and experience and that he would reach Omaha this week to look over the situation and decide on the future policy.

"We expect," continued Mr. Thomas, to jump from Kansas City direct to Boston and after playing there go right into the heart of New York. We can do this for we have the utmost confidence in its success. We know that it is going to win. The statement that Mr. George Thatcher, Jr., who came home last night, came here for aid is not true. He came to make a report to the board as to what the company had done and to see his father who is ill at Logan and to attend to some business of a personal character. There was nothing connected with it that he could not have attended to in Omaha. He went to Logan this morning and from there he will return to the "Corianton" company at once. The company will open for the week's engagement at Kansas City one week from next Monday, play-ing there three times en route. Business has not been as heavy as we could have desired but we have not been playing to heavy losses. Every employe of the company has been paid every dollar that he or she has earned and the syndicate does not owe a cent to anyone. There are now no differences in the company. The matters of controversy have been settled. Mr. Blair has been asked by the head to tender his residential.

by the board to tender his resignation, and he will do so. We anticipate no trouble in that direction."

Eugene Lewis who has been with the company as press agent, will re-turn to Salt Lake after the company leaves Kansas City. It is understood that his duties will be performed by Mr. J. Wash Young, though the new manager may change a good many things not expected at this time.

A JERSEY CITY MURDER MYSTERY

REPORT ON NAVAL MANEUVERS

to the secretary of the navy upon the combined operations between the army generous in his distribution of praise among the officers of the squadron, and especially does he commend Rear Admiral Coghlan for his very able and efficient assistance. His leading the squadron into Newport at night through searchlights, smoke and against a strong current, is pronounced to have been a brilliant plece of navi gation requiring a steady and undaunted nerve. Great credit is awarded to Capt. Lyon of the Olympia for his ca-ble cutting offerings, and to Capt. Brownson of the Alabama, and Capt. Manney of the Massachusetts for their able work. In fact, nearly all the squadron officers receive their share of praise in the admiral's report wherein is noticed the particular service which each rendered. Touching the operations themselves, Admiral Higginson says:

The whole and only intention was to develop, if posisble, any weak points in the line of defense established by the army, but whether we have done or not, remains to be decided by the board of arbitration. The work has been arduous and trying, including much night navigation, and I cannot speak too highly of the way in which it has been carried out by the officers and men of the squadron." The admiral comments interestingly upon some of the lessons to be learned from the maneuvers. For instance he

Much valuable knowledge in regard to the searchlights has been obtained during these operations and the general opinion seems to be that they are not so effective as has been supposed. In approaching positions at night the lash lights would flash very often, the ships lighting up the smokestacks and hull so that large print could be easily read and everyone supposed the ships had been discovered, but the the ships had been discovered, but the tures of the maneuvers undertaken by search lights would turn away and the fleet.

Washington, Sept. 19.-In his report | evidently the observers had not seen the vessels. In rainy or misty weather the value of searchlights is, I think, opportunity to test the value of fog for running past batteries. I was therefore obliged in running past Fisher's Island, and into Newport to select clear nights, 'army nights,' where chance was with the enemy, and I had little hope of a successful issue, but as my guiding motive was to help the army test their equipment rather than to gain points, I did not hesitate to ake the losing side. "One point in regard to the search-lights established, was that if all other aids to navigation have been distinguished, we have in the searchlights of the enemy a sufficient guide for an approach to this position.

"To those officers not in the Spanish war, the experience of keeping position and cruising at night without lights has been invaluable and has educated them to war conditions and it is for this pur. pose, in my opinion, that these exercises should be continued each year.

"The naval militia in the squadron was from Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York and rendered good ser-vice and no doubt gained considerable knowledge of the naval methods and work. To Lieut.-Commander Craven, in command of the Alleen, I am Indebted for his able and intelligent management of that vessel.' The work of the marines is said to have been of great value and their effi-ciency is said to have been greatly in-creased by their stay on shore. The army officer who acted as observer on board the Alabama, expressed himself as being very much impressed by the efficient manner in which the men were handled in the advance as skirmishers and the way they availed themselves of cover keeping behind stone walls and other natural objects. The admiral states that he will, in due course, sub-mit separate reports on the eleven fea-
